A fire of an alarming character broke out at bout two o'clock on the morning of the 10th inst. in the vicinity of Chow Moi and raged with violence up till about four o'clock. One large tea house was completely destroyed, together with several small dwelling-houses; the damage being estimated at $15,000.

It is with pleasure that we have still to re cord the rapid and correct transmission of messages from Europe and America to this, and viceversa, via Shanghai by the Imperial Telegraph ines. The Chinese lines now place Foochow within a few hours' communication with all the world, and we believe the duration of time be tween this and the head office in Shanghai is now reducced to a few minutes.

The Feng Shui has latterly been considered as anything but propitions to the natives interests, and passing evils have superstitiously been ascribed to the visitation of Joss, whose influence is considered as unequalied. We recently learn of the commission of a most premeditated suicide by a godown man in foreign employ, who was in fair circumstances and without any mental trouble or other affliction. The deceased, however showed signs of mental derangement by put ting an end to his existence by the rope, which method is scarcely considered au fait by natives occupying such a position as that of the deceased, and the prevailing impression is that he was incited to the commission of the rush act by the Feng Shui.-Herald.

The Indo China S. N. Co.'s steamer Kwong sang. Captain Jackson, arrived at Shanghai on the 16th inst. from Hongkong, having on board Mr. A. W. Mitchell, second mate of the Posang, and Mr. Fraser, 3rd engineer, who were left in charge of that vessel on the 10th inst. After the tug-boat Fuhle left the Posang, Messrs. Mitchell and Fraser lived on board a Chinese war junk. On the 12th inst. a fresh breeze sorung up and the sea became a little rough. At 4 a.m. the junk left the Posang, taking with her the two foreigners and sailed for shelter some hundreds of fishermen prowling about her, and when the junk opened fire on them they soon retreated. Mr. Mitchell boarded the Posang and found that the pirates had kindled a fire amidships in the tween decks, and he immediately put it out. On the following night the pirates boarded the Posana again in defiance of shots fired from the junk, and some of the fishermen replied; two men were taken prisoners that night. At midnight all was quiet and it was expected that everything would remain so, but on the 14th inst. some men still continued to go on board in defiance of the shots from the junk. At 6 p.m. the junk people, seeing that nothing could be done, sailed away with Messrs. Mitchell and Fraser on board and landed them on Steep Island, where they were received and treated very kindly by the people in charge of the light-house. At daylight on the 15th the Posung was swarming with the pirates, who were pulling her to pieces. At 7.30 a.m. on the same day the Kwangsang came and took Messrs. There the waterway terminates, and resort is had to carts as far as Tiumen. At Tiumen the convicte are need a slipped to proceed along the Irtish and the Obi to Tomsk, whence they are finally apportioned to the various penal settle-ments. On route to Daghalion, about 10 per cent, of the convicts succumb to the hardships and maladies they are compelled to undergo. But the state of things during the overland passage is many times worse. The recently published narrative of an "Eye-witness" gives a and the Irtish. "One day," he writes, "I fell United States before long. The unprecedented for a few days, afterwards tried, and banished to place to Nizhni-Novgorod, where, with a num-The ship was ever-crowded, and during our journey to Perm diphtheria, typhus fover, measles, and scarclet fever, made terrible ravages. At Perm, as we got into the carts, an officer called out to the soldiers who were to escort us, *Load your rifles; anybody attempting to escape will be shot. The soldier who comes up with a fugitive and shootshim'dead will get five roubles." The scope for a change for the better in a system which permits scenes of this kind is immense, and it is to be hoped that the new railway has services in store for Russian humanity as well as for Russian commerce.—Globe.

> The medical evidence given at an inquest held his food also, and so into his system. There were many cases occurring in Bradford and Bar-monday, and unless dealt with promptly were nearly always fatal.

No responsibility can be accepted by the Post Office for erroneous replies to verbal enquiries, or to notes addressed to subordinate officers. The sbroffs told off to sell stamps should especially not be regarded as able to give correct information: The Postal Guide alone is the standard on all points on which such information may be required.

LETTERS FOR THE UNITED STATES BY SAILING When it is desired to forward letters to the [1156] United States by a sailing ship which is not notified as carrying a mail, it is only necessary to post the letters in the ordinary way, marked with the name of the ship, and prapaid 10 cents per half onnce as usual. The Post Office then undertakes the duty of obtaining notice of de-parture and despatching the correspondence. It is requested that the letters be posted if possible at least one day before the date fixed for sailing.

Persons who send Musters of Tea through the Post in Tins are requested to have them made flat or square instead of round, as it is impossible to pack round time securely in the mail bags. It is believed that the tea will travel more safely in flat tins, which are not so liable as round ones to be bulged in. 4 by 3 by 11 inches is suggested as a good size. The tine should not have sharp corners.

For that heart of angel brightness,

Tired so early, lies at rest. Tired so early!—when the dawning Glimmored white-winged through the room And the skies were half-awaking.

Half in fading starlit gloom. From the heaven of the starlight Came the angels of the dawn: And the morning winds were sighing. And the purtains eastward drawn, And her sleeping face looked brighter,

And a whispering sob said-"Gone!" All the dainies were unfolding In the fields, where never more Shall the rapture of her child-life Run in shout and laughter o'er.

Tired so early !—she has gathered All her gladness in swift space. She has sung her song and ended, Childlike turning pleading face Back to home when joys are weary-Toward the one familiar place.

Lay her low among the daisies; Angels know her more than we: They have led her home from wandering. Tired with earthly revolvy. And above her daised pillow Lot hor simple tale be told: Hera the Lover of the lilies Bade a little blossom fold: He that wakes the flowers shall wake her.

BLIND AND POISONOUS FISHES. Recent deep-sea dredgings have proved the existence of blind fishes in " the cives of ocean." The rays of the sun are not believed to penetrate beyond a depth of 200 fathoms. but fishes have been found living at a depth ! darkness of those abysmal depths is somewhat relieved, however, by the faintly C diffused light of phosphorescence given off C by countless multitudes of marine animals ; C and the deen-sea fish are either totally blind, | 9 or have huge eyes, specially adapted for C making the most of the light they have. Dr. Gunther, to whom the description of the Challenger deep-sca fish was intrusted, has found that, in certain of the blind forms. the organs of vision appear to have been superseded by structures, in some cases very large, which he is inclined to regard as producers of light. In this view, these fishes carry phosphorescent lanterns on their heads, which may be used, as torches sometimes are, in attracting towards them the great-eyed species to form their prey. Although the blind fishes cannot, it is true. see the approach of their living food, their shouts are liberally provided with long feelers and other delicate tentacular organs that no doubt keep them informed of all movements taking place over a considerable area. Other deep-sea fishes, some of them cry that should have pierced the heart of any blind, others not, have rows of luminous snots running along the lower side of the body and tail, and sometimes also on the spout. Some of these spots, which differ Hogen, rising up before McCloud and laying structurally from the others, have been regarded as accessory eyes. Gunther, how-"Stand back, mon! Stand back!
